Sales, 200 bales. The following are the closing rates in New York futures yesterday and Saturday:

At the close of our last week's review of the cotton market for the official week New York quoted 11½c, declined to 111-16c; New Orleans quoted 10¾c, and remained unchanged; Liverpool 6 5-16d, declined to 63-16d; Memphis 10¾c, declined to 10¾c. This statement shows that during the week cotton changed in price but slightly, but that change was in a downward direction. Considering the generally depressed state of dering the generally depressed state of ade in the world, the numerous bankruptes, and the unfavorable influence of the stern war, combined with an excited finan-Tone of the market at 10:15, firm; 11:10, barely steady; 12:30, quiet and steady; 1:35, unchanged; 2:18, steady; 3:28, barely steady. cial discussion going on in our own national legislature, the slight decline is no more than might be expected. At the conclusion of the week there was a sensibly better feeling, New Orleans closed quiet at 10%c for middling. Arrivals at the close of the market were flat. ties who were 'short,' to cover their contracts. Receipts at the ports were smaller, and heavy rains at the south threatened a smaller movement in consequence of bad roads."

Receipts in Memphis during the official week aggregated 15,063 bales, against 15,345 bales the previous week, and 12,409 bales the corresponding week last season, and 12,928 bales the season before. Weather. Contrary to all expectation the weather has taken a turn toward a fair pan-out, and those who have been waxing their sleighs for a snow-storm will have to lay them aside for awhile yet. The temperature was rapidly lowering last night, and will be cold enough to freeze the rudders off a cast-iron cat.
